Report of Library Trustees

February 1, 1934.

To the Citizens of Rye:

During the spring the library was closed for a brief period during which time the floor was scraped and refinished, the books rearranged, and reference shelves moved to the reading room. A much needed improvement for the summer season has been the addition of a screen door for the outer entrance. Considerable attention has been paid to the planting around the building and the stone wall has been relaid.

A gift of ten dollars ($10.00) from the Every-Other-Tuesday Club is to be used for the purchase of books (non-fiction).

The trustees have received from the treasurer of Trust Funds, in addition to the usual annual interest money, the sum of sixty-two dollars and fifty-seven cents ($62.57) representing small amounts of accrued interest from the following funds: Benjamin F. Webster, James H. Locke, J. Disco Jenness, James M. Drake, Dr. John W. Parsons, and Susan A. Goss. This sum has been set aside toward the purchase of a new Encyclopaedia Britannica.

With changing social and economic conditions, the function of the library is increasingly important, not only in providing solace and inspiration for leisure hours, but also in establishing a broad foundation for adult education as well as for the growing needs of our youth. Your trustees request the appropriation of one thousand dollars ($1,000) to meet the requirements of the coming year.

Respectfully submitted,

HELEN F. PHILBRICK.

Report of Librarian

To the Trustees of the Rye Public Library:

The following is the report of the library for the year 1933:

Number of volumes in 1932.....	8357
“ “ added in 1933.....	483
“ “ discarded.....	527
Largest circulation.....	411
Smallest circulation.....	21
Money from fines.....	$12.16
“ spent for supplies for desk.....	11.00

Acting on the suggestion of Miss Dorothy Annable, secretary of the library commission, practically all of the reference books have been placed in the reading room. These take the place of the case of birds and eggs which were previously there. One addition to the reference works is: “The American Educator Encyclopedia” in ten volumes—a thoroughly modern work designed to meet the needs of every age. A binder is supplied to take care of the loose-leaf extension pages which will keep the encyclopedia up to date.

This year the library was chosen to entertain the district meeting consisting of the following towns: Portsmouth, New Castle, Greenland, Stratham, Newington, Rye, North Hampton, Hampton, Hampton Falls, Seabrook and Kensington. eight of which were represented. Following an address of welcome by Mrs. Shirley Philbrick were talks by Miss Hannah Fernald, Miss Annable, Mrs. Walter Noyes and Miss Boothman, a business meeting and round table.

Luncheon was served at Locke Lodge by Mrs. R. Jenness Locke and Mrs. Chester Drake. Twenty representatives attended.

In the late fall the library commission sent out to the libraries a traveling exhibit of children's new books. The object being: To give the people an opportunity of examining the newest juvenile books. The library was allowed to keep this collection four days.

Under new conditions of membership in the Literary Guild, we have joined the Senior Guild as well as continuing the Junior Guild, the former adding one book each month and the latter four.

This year the state urges the use of their books—books, which otherwise cannot be had, may be obtained from them for two weeks. The only obligation being carrying charges. Further information on borrowing books may be had at the desk.

Respectfully submitted,

HELEN C. DRAKE,

Librarian.

Report of Trustees of Trust Funds

RYE, N. H., February 1, 1934.

To the Citizens of Rye:

The total income from all Trust Funds during the twelve months ending January 31, 1934, has been $3,155.42. The library trustees have been paid $355.20. The cemetery trustees have been paid $319.78 from individual trusts for the care of lots and $32.60 from the Dalton Fund. Other expenditures from the Dalton Fund income have been $70.00 for architectural services, $1,825.94 for additional road construction, $372.50 on account of North Hampton real estate and $64.84 for miscellaneous items.

Over a period of years there has accumulated in the hands of the trustees several small surpluses on some of the library funds to the aggregate amount of $62.57, which has been paid this year to the library board. In connection with the J. Disco Jenness Library Trust the sum of $8.00 has been transferred from income to principal.

The principal expenditure from the income of the Dalton Fund the past year has properly been for essential road construction. The coming spring a start will be made on a portion of the general planting scheme in accord with a plan that has been prepared by Mr. William L. White, Architect. Necessarily, the work of landscaping must be spread over a series of years, but each year should show commendable progress. As the years go by, the generosity of Mr. Dalton in remembering the town through this gift will be more and more appreciated by our citizens and friends.

During the year the real estate which was a part of the Dalton estate has been sold. As of January 31, 1934, the Trust Funds are invested as follows:

$17,500.00	United States Treasury Bonds
14,900.00	Town of Rye Notes
28,000.00	Face value Miscellaneous Bonds

Visits were made to oculist, physician, dentist, Portsmouth Hospital, Rockingham relief office, New Hampshire tuberculosis association and the Red Cross in the interest of the health of the school child.

The Red Cross of Rye have helped in many ways and have been untiring in their efforts to relieve the distress among the people of the community. I thank them, and I cannot say enough in praise for their wonderful co-operation. May I take this opportunity to thank the School Board, superintendent of schools, Parent-Teacher, and all who assisted in the health of the school child.

Respectfully submitted,

ANGELA DOLBEC, R. N.

Report of School Board and Building Committee

February 10, 1934.

The Rye School Board wishes to report on their activities in conjunction with the building committee as follows:

The matter of the erection of a school building which was brought up at the School District meeting in March, 1933, having been laid over until the adjourned meeting on June 6, 1933, the committee busied itself until that time with plans, specifications and estimates to be submitted to that meeting. After exhaustive consideration it seemed apparent to the building committee that at that time a consolidated building could be erected in Rye for the sum of $57,000. This suggestion was made to the School District at its June meeting and plans of such a building were displayed. The School District thereupon voted to erect a school building at a cost not to exceed $56,000. The matter was subsequently committed to the building committee appointed in 1933, with the addition of Mr. Ernest Moulton and Mr. Shirley S. Philbrick. The enlarged committee met for organization and voted to ask architects so desiring, to submit plans; the competition closing on July 11, 1933. The building committee met at the home of the secretary on that date and reviewed seven sets of plans. After discussion, a majority vote was cast for the plans submitted by Mr. Harold Mason, who was declared the official architect and instructed to prepare working drawings, specifications, etc., to be used in advertising for bids from building contractors, such bids being limited to New Hampshire residents. These advertisements appeared in Portsmouth, Manchester, and other local papers. The advertised date for opening these bids was August 22, 1933. On that occasion only three bids were submitted and as none of these was within the authorized cost all were rejected. The committee was assured that the small number of bids submitted was due largely to the rapid fluctuation in the cost of building materials and uncertainty in the financial market. Representatives of the building committee then visited the office of the NRA in Concord in an effort to secure their co-operation.

The committee learned that while such funds might be available, to secure them it would be necessary to call a special meeting of the School District, the direction would be assumed by the NRA officials and it was doubtful whether the money could be secured before the end of the winter. Sensing the need of immediate action, the building committee, in consultation with the architect, voted that an alteration in the size of the building and the elimination of certain lesser conveniences might bring the cost of the building within the appropriation. Such changes were made in the plans, which were re-submitted to the original contractors, bids being opened at the home of Mr. Jenness Locke on September 19, 1933.

Mr. Harry Carter having submitted the lowest bid, the contract was awarded to him for the sum of $47,455.00. The remaining $8,645.00 being reserved to cover architect's fees, furnishings, well digging, grading, and the purchase of the adjoining lot. The lot was surveyed and building commenced on November 17, 1933.

In the erection of the building, there have been 48 men employed, as the rigors of the weather permitted; 40 of whom are residents of Rye.

Report of the Superintendent of Schools

To the School-Board of Rye:

I herewith submit to you my fourth annual report as superintendent of schools:

During the early autumn of the current year teachers' meetings were held in all towns of the Union to formulate a plan of survey and procedure which would continue for a number of years. By this plan one subject will be surveyed each year to determine our strengths, in order that we may not lose ground, and also to determine those points where gains should be made. As a result of these meetings the work of the school was laid out in five different fields, each field assigned to a definite year for special investigation and endeavor. By vote of all teachers the special field this year is English. To ascertain our present position several tests were given in all schools. By using the results thus obtained we are enabled at once to enter a definite line of advancement. We believe, as a result of this procedure, both the path which we should follow and the end to be reached will be made more definite. It is interesting to note that the tests given this autumn in grades three to six show the average to be three points above the standard score. These ratings prove earnest effort on the part of your teachers.

The statistical report following shows the data on school attendance. The percent of attendance is 94.30. This is about the average of the entire state, but is two points below Rye's usual rank. The unusual conditions under which we were compelled to operate our schools, together with the prevailing illness of that year, are responsible for this.

The people of Rye, I am sure, will realize the advantages they have expected from their consolidated school. They expect and will receive, as far as modern education can do so, an education adapted to each child's individual needs. Each pupil will be given, to a much greater degree than heretofore, the opportunity to develop his own special talents. Varying abilities, whether of grade or subject, will be recognized. There will be implanted in each pupil a loyalty to his school and his town, a respect for honest endeavor and for the fundamental truths which have made our nation great. We shall strive in everything, that your school shall be a unit in spirit as it will be in physical aspect. One common purpose must motivate all activities of the school. The seven cardinal principles of education are printed below. These we shall take as our guide as we map out the work of our new school.

1. Health
2. Command of fundamental processes
3. Worthy home membership
4. Vocation
5. Civic education
6. Worthy use of leisure
7. Ethical character

The building itself is constructed for modern education. The ratio of light to floor space is in accord with modern practice. The heating system is the simplest and most efficient. The arrangement of the rooms promises an ideal plant for administering the program. The auditorium is of ample size as a play room, assembly hall, English activities room, dramatization and allied procedures. With the domestic arts serving room adjoining, it will furnish opportunity for a dining room where the pupils may eat their lunches under proper supervision. A little advertised, but highly valued feature of the building will be a comfortable library and reference room. The ability to use a modern library, to find facts therein, and to organize these facts in logical order is a practical necessity for present day leaders. We shall try to build up a library of which the people of Rye may be proud.

As the large majority of our graduates attend Portsmouth High School we shall see to it that the courses of our upper grades parallel those of like grades in Portsmouth. In this way we believe an adequate preparation will be secured for continued success on the part of our pupils.

THE SCHOOLS AND THE DEPRESSION

During times of business depression an increasing burden is placed upon the schools, not only to see that the school dollar is economically spent but that the welfare of the children is carefully guarded. The national emergency relief has helped the schools in this latter obligation. Every child in attendance at Rye schools, who is underweight to any appreciable extent, has been furnished one-half pint of milk daily since the first of November. It is expected that this distribution will continue through the present school year. Twenty-eight children in Rye have received this service. As a result we find these children, practically without exception, gaining in weight and in vitality.

An extension of this service is the distribution of cod liver oil to pupils in need of it. Funds are now allotted from the Federal Relief Administration for the furnishing of free school lunches to the pupils whose parents are out of work and, therefore, cannot really afford suitable lunches for their children.

These new activities have placed an added responsibility upon the work of the school nurse. The deciding factor in all cases is the physical welfare of the child. The nurses have willingly given extra time and acquired increased expense to see that all children secure the benefits to which they are entitled.

THE ADULT SCHOOL MOVEMENT

One of the results of increased unemployment and of shortened hours of labor is the tremendous increase in adult education work. Classes for adults are being established by the thousands under the sponsorship of the federal government. While, at the present time, this work is wholly national in administration, I am sure that a large part of this work will be adopted as a recognized obligation of the regular school system and that adult classes will be established in the majority of towns and cities. There seems to be but one reason that children go to school and adults do not. That reason is that children have the time to attend. This reason will not have force in the future—is not true at present. Time there is. Adults, owing to increased incentive, can be taught more efficiently than young children. Adults know their own capacities and their own abilities. Adult education is a most productive and most economical form of instruction.

The Rye Parent-Teacher Association is a source of pride to the schools, and I am sure to the people of the town. Such a strong organization bespeaks continued progress for the school system with which it is allied. Parent interest assures good schools.

May I again express my appreciation to the school board for its helpful guidance in my work and to the townspeople, parents and pupils for their co-operation with the schools and its officials.

Respectfully submitted,

ROY W. GILLMORE,

Superintendent of Schools.
